

DISBELIEVER

The band was born from an idea of Yuri Ciampi (guitar), Sacha Ciampi (drums) and Andy Madonia (bass), later joined by Luis McFadden (vocals ex Motus Tenebrae) and Marko Giampaolini (guitar ex Motus Tenebrae). The synergy between the five musicians coming from different musical styles and experiences, allows to blend typically rock and metal sounds, shape a unique gothic style, which leads the band to the first self produced work in 2009 entitled "Soul Divided". The composition and arrangements are a mix of melodies, gothic romantic atmospheres, heavy riffs and great vocal lines. In a context where sound power blends with emotional depth; characteristics that capture the attention of fans of the genre, who welcome "Soul Divided" with a positive response, both in Italy and abroad. After numerous live shows, in 2012 the band enters the studio for the writing of the second album entitled "The Dark Days", recorded at the ACME recording studio together with the producer Davide Rosati and mastered in Sweden at the famous Fascination Street Studio by Jens Bogren (Moonspell, Opeth, Katatonia, Paradise Lost). "The Dark Days", released by Wormhole Death / Dreamcell in December 2013, is a much more accurate work as regards melodies and arrangements, without neglecting the romantic atmospheres that distinguish the style of the band. The appreciations do not take too long this time too, excellent reviews and criticisms ensure that the band carves out a respectable place within the national music circuit. Two videos "Ordinary Way" (2013) "Frozen" (2014) are extracted from the disc. Unfortunately, radical changes in private life led Marko Giampaolini and Luis McFadden to leave the band. Later join the band M4RT3 (Vocals) with his powerful and melodic voice and Robby DePaul (Guitars), guitarist with many different musical influences. The new members bring the band to new ideas and inspirations, which they decide to integrate into the new album to improve the sound even more, this brings the rearrangement of all songs ready for recording. At the same time the band performs in numerous lives, among the most important we remember the opening to Zachary Stevens (Savatage, Trans Siberian Orchestra, Circle II Circle) and subsequently to Cadaveria. Currently the band is active and has finished recording their third album.
